On behalf of our client, University HealthSystem Consortium, Furst Group is identifying candidates for the position of Associate Vice President of Analytics in Chicago. The position provides clinical expertise as the lead clinician, to improve relevance and increase the use of product offerings.

The University HealthSystem Consortium (UHC), formed in 1984, is an alliance of 101 academic medical centers and 178 of their affiliated hospitals representing approximately 90 percent of the nation’s nonprofit academic medical centers. UHC offers its members specific programs and services to improve clinical, operational and patient safety performance. The mission of the organization is to advance knowledge, foster collaboration and promote change to help members succeed in markets. Through collaboration, members of UHC improve clinical and operational performance, pool knowledge and resources, maximize revenue, create economies of scale, and ultimately influence the direction and delivery of health care.

The position requires:

- An MD, with an advanced degree in biostatistics, health services research or a related field.
- Demonstrated analytic experience and professional training in coding and or risk adjustment methodology preferred.
- Knowledge/experience of the breadth of clinical, financial, operational, and market issues as evidenced by appropriate health-care related experience.
- Knowledge of the AHRQ PSIs and IQIs.
